Michael Goulian, airshow performer and aerobatic champion, flies his CAP-232 with Sennheiser headsets and worked closely with the company to develop the HME 100MG.

"Sennheiser headsets are without a doubt the most comfortable and reliable high performing headsets I have worn. And in my business, my headset is a critical piece of safety equipment," said Goulian.

The HME 100MG was introduced at the EAA Sun n'Fun Fly-In in Lakeland, FL this April with Michael Goulian available at the Sennheiser booth to greet his fans and sign autographs.

Established in 1945 in Wedemark, Germany, Sennheiser is the acknowledged world leader in microphone technology, RF-wireless and infrared sound transmission, headphone transducer technology, and in the development of active noise-cancellation. Sennheiser offers a complete range of aviation headsets with models appropriate for student pilots through professional pilots in cockpits of all types of aircraft. Sennheiser Electronic Corporation is the U.S. wholly owned subsidiary, with headquarters in Old Lyme, Connecticut.
